Rep. Kenneth Kurtz, from the 58th District, offered the following invocation:

“Dear God, we are thankful for the opportunity we have to live in this great land. We are thankful for the opportunity we have to serve the great people in this state. We appreciate the time so much where we see joy, thanksgiving and good cheer to one another, and yet we realize at this hour that there are those who are struggling, those who are hurting. So our hearts and compassion go out to each one, that we be diligent in all that we do, to not only share the goodness of the times that we are in, but also to be compassionate, loving and caring to one another. Bless this assembly, bless this day, bless each home and family that is represented within this body. We ask in Your holy name, Amen.”

Rep. Lyons moved that the Initiative Petition be given immediate effect.
The motion prevailed, 2/3 of the members serving voting therefor.

Rep. Tlaib, having reserved the right to explain her protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

If women have to buy a rider then so should men so that if they rape a woman and she gets an abortion and he is convicted of her rape then his insurance should cover her automatically. This vote confirms the theory that the Michigan Republican-led Legislature is obsessed with controlling women, our bodies and decisions. I wish the Legislature was as obsessed with the children who are already living among us that die before the age of one in Michigan. I wished they cared as much about those children. It is hypocritical that we are 37th in the nation when it comes to infant mortality. We spend more time and money oppressing women in this chamber then helping them thrive. I don't want the Legislature to make this choice for me. I rather have millions of Michigan residents vote the Legislature to do what is right for women in our state. The voters should decide not the 110 members of the Michigan House and 38 members of the Michigan Senate.”

Rep. Schor, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I adamantly oppose this initiated law. I concur with all of the opposition comments made today, and submit the comments of my colleague from Dearborn Heights as my constitutional no-vote explanation.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise today in opposition to the initiated law before us today. You know, it wasn't too long ago that we were standing here, listening to the majority's argument that we should overhaul the Michigan Court of Claims due to the fact that the judges who serve on that court are selected by 3% of Michigan's population.

Yet here we stand again today, prepared to drastically alter the way in which Michigan women gain access to the health care they need during some of the most difficult times of their lives, thanks to the signatures of, you guessed it, 3% of the state's population. The hypocrisy, if not for the severity of the issue, is laughable.

There is no question that the issue of women's reproductive health is incredibly divisive. Passionate beliefs are held across the political spectrum but the issue before us today - interference in the private insurance market while forcing women to buy additional insurance for abortion procedures - has been found to be so extreme, that Democrats and Republicans in Michigan have frequently united to oppose this issue. Governor Engler vetoed this legislation. Governor Snyder vetoed this legislation; between 60 and 70% of Michigan residents oppose this legislation; but that's just not enough for the special interests in our state.

As the youngest member of the Democratic caucus, I find it necessary to rise and give voice specifically to the young women and young girls who don't have a say in this chamber today. Restricting a women's access to abortion services in the case of rape and incest is an abhorrent assault on women's rights in this state. I want everyone in this chamber to stop for a second to think about their wives, their sisters, their daughters, their friends, and their coworkers. If they were raped, if they were the victim of incest, if they were having a miscarriage that put their own lives in danger - what would you want? Would you want to make their access to medical assistance and basic reproductive health care easier, or would you have hoped that they could have foresaw that rape, or that incest, or any other life threatening complication months in advance and had bought that additional insurance rider?

I'd venture to say that you'd want your daughters, your wives, your sisters to be happy and healthy and alive. If you feel that way, I encourage you to allow the citizens of the State of Michigan to have the final say in this measure. Give a voice to your wife, give a voice to your sister, give a voice to your daughters. With issues as divisive as these, it is beyond reasonable to allow the citizens of Michigan to decide.

Just imagine if this was a bill to restrict a man's access to a vasectomy or other medical services. There would be no debate, there would be no discussion, because the bills never make it to the House floor. The people of the state of Michigan should have the final say on this issue. The alternative would be to allow this chamber, a chamber comprised by 80% men, to tell 100% of the women in this state what they can and cannot do with their bodies. That, Mr. Speaker, is something I cannot support."

Rep. Knezek, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

This is my no vote explanation:

That, Mr. Speaker, is something I cannot support."

Rep. Segal, having reserved the right to explain her protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

Mr. Speaker I rise today against the Initiative Petition:

What a difference a month makes.

It was just last month that this very chamber repeatedly said 3% of Michigan's population wasn't enough to represent the will of Michigan, but today, only 35 days later, it seems 3% of the population is enough to convince this legislature to make women in this state second class citizens.

This initiative injects the cold, bureaucratic hand of government into the room when women and their doctors are making medical decisions — very difficult and personal medical decisions.

This initiative would require women like Jenni to choose between the best practice of health care for her and her family and the cost of that care. While many of my colleagues wrongly believe that elective abortions are simply used for unplanned pregnancies or as a form of birth control, Jenni was faced with ending a planned pregnancy when she discovered that her fetus was missing an important part of the brain and was not going to survive. She made the very difficult decision to end the pregnancy. If her insurance hadn't covered the procedure, Jenni would have been forced to pay the entire hospital bill of more than $7500 or risk waiting for a miscarriage, potentially threatening any chance she would've had to later give birth to her youngest daughter. She may have been forced to continue carrying an unviable fetus, waiting for him to die and being forced to relive her grief every time someone smiled at her knowingly, congratulated her, or simply held open a door. Why don't we know about Jenni's story? Because, once again, this legislature is trying to ram through an unpopular proposal without a single hearing — without allowing the voices of people across this state to exercise their constitutional right to be heard.

This initiative would also jeopardize the care of Julie. I can't use her name because of HIPPA and again, she did not have the ability to tell her own story because there wasn't a single hearing on this issue. Julie is a 35 year old woman with insulin dependent diabetes since age 6. During her first trimester, there was bleeding but continued to have a live fetus. Control of her diabetes had been made difficult by the pregnancy and she had frequent high and low blood sugar readings. Bleeding continued in the second trimester and her blood count was near the threshold where blood transfusion is needed to prevent complications of severe anemia. At 17 weeks gestation she reported a watery vaginal discharge and increased pelvic cramping. Ultrasound and a dye infusion test confirmed that her bag of waters has ruptured and the fetus still had a heartbeat. She was counseled that the pregnancy would likely end in fetal death before the point of survival outside her uterus (23-24 weeks gestation) and that, if the fetus did reach the age of viability, it would likely die after birth from abnormal lung development due to the absence of amniotic fluid. Continuation of the pregnancy placed the mother at increased risk of blood transfusion, uterine infection, and hysterectomy. In addition, the continuation of poorly controlled diabetes increases the risk of accelerated diabetic complications such as kidney injury and blindness from retinal disease.

If this woman chooses to terminate this pregnancy to preserve her health and future fertility, she would not have insurance coverage under this legislation, unless she had pre-purchased the 'abortion rider.'

This initiative would also shut the door on the recruitment of much needed OBs and GYNs throughout this state, by inviting Big Brother into the exam room, dictating that doctors and patients choose between what is medically appropriate care and whether or not they will be fined for the procedure and not reimbursed for the cost. Today, 1/4 of Michigan counties do not have a single practicing OB/GYNthat's 22 counties without services for women without this archaic law—how many more counties will shut their doors to women's health? With the eyes of government looking over your shoulder, taking away payment options for your patients and potentially fining you $10,000 for providing necessary and quality care, why would you want to practice in Michigan?

Medical insurance is supposed to be there for the thousands of unforeseeable conditions, from simple flu vaccinations to preventative mental health care. Why would this state choose to exempt procedures needed when there are pregnancy complications? Especially when pregnancy complications are one of the top 10 causes of death for women under 35? There is no rational or medical reason to place lifesaving reproductive care that saves women's lives into another category at an additional cost.

I thought my colleagues on the other side of the aisle like to call themselves the party of small government?

Just last month, I sat through committee listening to my colleagues grandstand about how the Affordable Care Act was a government intervention into healthcare that would increase costs.

I listened as colleague after colleague bashed the President, because insurance companies were discontinuing some of their policies and changing some of their plans.

Yet, I stand here today as those same colleagues argue for more government intervention in doctor's offices across our state – actually voting to dismantle private healthcare plans and increase insurance and healthcare costs for women.

This extreme proposal actually does the very thing that these colleagues claim to oppose – alter health insurance plans and then force women to purchase new plans, just to keep the coverage that they already have.

Right to Life's President went as far as to claim that the women of Michigan should be expected to plan for rape as they would plan for a flood or a car accident...

But, Mr. Speaker, rape is no accident!

Under this proposal, in cases of rape or when a woman's life is at risk, no longer will those women and their doctors be allowed to make informed, thoughtful, and medically necessary decisions.

Instead, a bunch of politicians without a single physician among you – will have told them that government knows best when it comes to women's reproductive healthcare.

I am ashamed, Mr. Speaker!

I am ashamed that this legislature, which is comprised of just 20% women, feels so compelled to interfere in the healthcare choices of women.

I am ashamed that the supporters of this proposal can't be bothered with facts – repeating the bold-faced lie that their tax dollars are somehow being used for abortions, despite the fact that the federal Hyde Amendment has banned tax dollars from being spent on elective abortions since 1977 and that Michigan law already does so, as well.

I am ashamed that while unemployment is climbing, schools are closing their doors, and cities are going bankrupt, this legislature cannot get over its teenage fascination with vaginas long enough to actually focus on the real problems plaguing our state!

Women know that there is no medical need for this bill. We know that there are no cost-savings in this bill. This bill is pure politics. It's just that simple.

Now, I understand that some of my colleagues on the other side of the aisle apparently preferred the days when women didn't have a vote—when we were to be seen and not heard.

Well, Mr. Speaker, you can try to limit our rights and our freedoms, you can even try to make us second-class citizens...

But we are not going away.

We are not sitting down!

We are not shutting up!

Women are watching and we are fighting back!

I demand a no vote, because enough is enough, Mr. Speaker."

Rep. LaVoy, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

Many of my colleagues have expressed reasons for this to go to a vote of the people. I concur.

It is rare that voters get to directly vote for legislation themselves. I believe that major issues should allow for the greatest amount of participation by the most people affected. In this case, it warrants a 'no' vote.

As was pointed out by those on both sides of the aisle, a 'yes' or 'no' vote doesn't support or stop abortion.

As far as use of tax money is concerned, I leave you with a quote from Scripture.

Matthew 22:17-21

Tell us, then, what is your opinion: Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?' Knowing their malice, Jesus said, 'Why are you testing me, you hypocrites? Show me the coin that pays the census tax.' Then they handed him the Roman coin. He said to them, 'Whose image is this and whose inscription?' They replied, 'Caesar's.'* At that he said to them, 'Then repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God.'

Let the people decide!"

Rep. Cavanagh, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the Initiative Petition, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

Today I voted NO on the initiative to require that women purchase an additional rider to cover an abortion procedure. This legislation does nothing to improve women's health, but is yet another attempt to limit and interrupt the right of women to keep a medical decision between herself and her doctor. Legislation like this must stop. It is unfair to require half of the population to purchase a rider that the other half does not, and it is wrong to allow a small group of extremists to dictate legislation for the entire state. Two governors have vetoed similar legislation because it goes too far, and this is the latest example of a bill that reaches too far into the private lives of Michigan women. For these reasons, I voted NO on the abortion opt out bills."

Rep. Lyons moved that the bill be given immediate effect.

The question being on the motion made by Rep. Lyons,

Rep. Lyons demanded the yeas and nays.

The Initiative Petition was referred to the Clerk for depositing with the Secretary of State.

Rep. LaVoy, having reserved the right to explain his nay vote, made the following statement:

“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I object to a record roll call vote for Immediate Effect of the Initiative Petition. Record Roll Call votes are requested time and time again and the requests are ignored by the Speaker. Even worse, they are denied when less than 2/3 of the Members of the House have voted for a bill. In this case, a Record Roll Call Vote was requested and granted. What is the difference?”

Rep. Rutledge moved that Rep. Cochran be excused temporarily from today's session.

The motion prevailed.

The House agreed to the title as amended.

Rep. Stamas moved that the bill be given immediate effect.

The motion prevailed, 2/3 of the members serving voting therefor.

Rep. LaVoy, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:
“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

Now is not the time to increase the limits of campaign contributions for politicians. Who wants more money in politics?”

Rep. Schor, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:
“Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I oppose this bill because it puts more money in politics and prevents disclosure of donors for attack ads during election time.

It is unfortunate that the Republican majority chose to defeat my amendment requiring disclosure of those that pay for attack ads that run against candidates on the ballot but don’t mention voting for or against that candidate within 60 days of an election.

The US Supreme Court has said that this is constitutional and disclosure does not impede free speech. The US Supreme Court in the 1970’s said that issue ads are protected as first amendment free speech as long as someone isn’t asked to vote for or against that candidate. This has been overturned in more recent decisions, though, including in the Citizens United case where the Court said requiring disclosure of issue ads that are electioneering is constitutional. This amendment follows the US Supreme Court’s ruling that requiring disclosure for these electioneering issue ads does not impede free speech.

In fact, Republican Secretary of State Ruth Johnson proposed a rule to do what my amendment did. Discussing that rule, Elections Director Chris Thomas said, 'This rule in no way bans any speech. A rule that would have been done back in 2004 would have banned speech. The U.S. Supreme Court said in 2010 that you can't have any law that bans independent expenditures by corporations or unions. So really, what we have now is disclosure.'

Republican Governor Rick Snyder, when he was candidate Rick Snyder, said in a white paper, 'Michigan law does not require disclosure of political advertising unless the ad specifically calls for a vote for or against the candidate. This allows unregulated third party contributions to finance robo-calls and masquerade them as issue advertising without revealing the funding source; leaving the door open for well financed interest groups to influence the outcome of the election by providing voters with false and out-of context accusations without fear of reprisal. Michigan's Campaign Finance Network reports that since 2000, there has been $45 million in unaccountable spending for issue advertising in Michigan's most competitive state campaigns.'

Then-candidate Snyder then said, 'All electioneering communications - broadcast, printed, and telephonic - that feature the name or image of a candidate for public office or ballot initiative should be considered expenditures subject to appropriate disclosure requirements.'

Here are some examples of campaign committees that have no disclosure: Americans for Tax Reform, Crossroads GPS, Patriot Majority These are three campaign committees that can run ads against anyone running for office and not disclose who is funding those ads. Two of them are conservative-leaning and one is liberal leaning. Any idea which is which? If we don't know, the public surely doesn't know!

We need to agree with the Republican Secretary of State and do what the US Supreme Court has allowed us to do - require transparency and have these groups disclose who is paying for these electioneering ads.

I also proposed an amendment to keep the spending caps at the current level instead of doubling them, as this bill does. I knocked over 10,000 doors, and not one person asked for more money in politics. This bill puts more money in politics and will result in more negative attack ads on TV, on our phones, and many more brochures in our mailboxes at election time. Do we really not have enough of those as it is?

Governor Snyder, again when he was candidate Snyder, said, 'Campaign and lobbying expenditures have steadily risen over the last decade while Michigan's economy and quality of life have declined.'

I call on Governor Snyder to not flip flop now that he is in office. In his policy paper called Create a Culture of Ethics in Michigan's Government, Candidate Rick Snyder said, 'Rick Snyder is the only person who can create a new culture of ethical behavior and transparency in Michigan government.' I call on the governor to prove it and veto this bill."

Rep. Howrylak, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I voted no on SB 661 because there should not be an increase in the contribution limits to campaigns from political action committees (PACs) and independent political committees (IPCs). There is a strong public policy objective to reduce the influence that special interests have in campaigns. If we increase the individual limitations but keep PAC and IPC contribution limits stable, this objective will be met."

Rep. Greimel, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I voted no on Senate Bill 661, which would change Michigan elections by allowing special interests to spend more money on politicians and campaigns while weakening financial disclosure. I support increased financial reporting and disclosure for entities that pay for robocalls, but this bill does much more than that. It doubles campaign contribution limits, and it prohibits Michigan's Secretary of State from requiring disclosure of so-called 'soft money' donors. These provisions entrench pay-to-play politics and thwart transparency. The problems associated with those provisions outweigh the benefits of requiring transparency regarding robocalls."

Rep. McBroom, having reserved the right to explain his protest against the passage of the bill, made the following statement:

"Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

I am adamantly opposed to the passage of this legislation. There are several reasons I feel that this bill is poorly thought out and counter productive. Primarily, there is no need for increased campaign contributions and there is a need for greater transparency and accountability in issue advocacy.

While the argument is proffered saying that we should keep up with inflation and that the buying power of campaign funds has decreased in the last 35 years I believe this is an inane and ridiculous argument. The truth is campaigns have continued to spend greater amounts of dollars despite lessened value of each dollar. Raising contribution limits will only create an 'arms race' where both sides will raise even more money and campaigns will only get more expensive. We are doubling limits- do we really believe that we need to double the costs of a campaign?

Next, the frequent reporting of finances in off years is a ridiculous burden on all of us, especially those of us whose busy spouses manage the funds! If I had great deal of activity going on in the off years, perhaps there could be a triggering amount, there may be some justification but otherwise it is completely unnecessary. Those filings are used almost entirely for the parties, along with the press, to watch their own and each others' members for the purposes of general nosiness and to exert either influence or discouragement of further fundraising activities.

This whole discussion receives the unfortunate and misguided label of simply a furtherance of free speech. How can the increase of artificial caps on contributions be increasing of free speech? Unless the cap is removed entirely to prove that insinuation I do not accept that there is more speech by simply having an higher cap. It also implies that those without dollars somehow have less free speech. Is that what we really believe?

Lastly, and most egregious, is the provision restricting the reporting of those who participate in blatant, obvious, and even obnoxious electioneering under the guise of 'issue advocacy.' This, too, is promoted as a free speech issue. However, there is always a cost to speech, especially political speech. While we should be always free in our rights to speak our beliefs and ideas there is always a cost to that speech. All of us make choices whether or not to speak out on issues based on what it will cost us to do so. Will it cost us good will with our colleagues when they are tired and wishing to depart? Will it cost us friends who disagree with us? Will it cost us or buy us the favor of the governor whom we wish to support or oppose particular policy? There is a cost! The ability to hide behind a mask of anonymity leads to speech that is vile, corrupting, falsely inflamed, and unaccountable. This is the great bane of the internet, talk radio, and many anonymous newspaper letters.

We should stand against this destruction of civil conversation and debate in our state. Those who wish to play in the political arena must be willing to pay that price for free speech. If putting their name on an ad against the governor is too much risk for them, considering he may win, then they should keep their opinions to themselves. Is there a place for anonymous speech? Yes, but in very select circumstances. Certainly not when the commercial or flyer is clearly and even blatantly promoting a vote for or against a candidate or issue but stops just short of asking the viewer or listener to actually vote for or against that person or issue.

We should turn down these bills and vote for real accountability in elections. We should not continue to fool ourselves into believing we are promoting free speech. We are promoting more money, less accountability, less civil discourse, and, ultimately, more of the same in what we already have in politics and elections- and who is asking for that?

Thank you, Mr. Speaker."
